

MOVING FORWARD AFTER COVID

20.07.21

Crises happens to push us on the other part and that's why we should be tougher when the going seems tough. Life before the outbreak of covid was like a piece of cake i never thought the pandemic would be this atrocious. It was something appalling especially to me and this made my life change abruptly and was forced to take the different way of life.

Life was really nice not only at school but also at home. I enjoyed every bit of it nothing became a stumbling rock to me. I was made comfortable since all my reading materials that i needed at school were well provided and this was made smooth by one of my relative who lived in New York city, Abroad.

Life started changing when the schools were closed down and not only schools but also countries were locked down and no one was allowed to travel. Everyone including no one was left behind since the pandemic became nobody's business and this became a huge challenge to me all my house chores were done by my nanny who was being paid by my relative in abroad.

It was three months when i realised that i was alone in this world not that everybody else around me had been affected and died of covid, no, this was simply because my relative that was my aunt who used to keep me comfortable pay the nanny was nowhere to be heard again and my nanny was nowhere to be seen also and this gave me a big challenge and i decided to forget about my complains and focuse on how to overcome the situation.

All in all when the road become tough you should be tougher and this is what kept me going. One day I woke up took my broken old handled jembe and went to the small farm that was behind the house I ~~started~~ ^{started} to plough and practiced farming, besides, practice makes perfect I got myself used to the work I did also poultry keeping. This pushed me because I could sell the seedling where I got atleast something that kept me moving.

However, it was a challenge since I did not know that all this work needed some practices in order to keep them healthy and strong. The poultry I had kept had fallen sick and died and this made me know the unfairly part of the world. But the big question was that if I give up on all this things because of just a slight ~~unde~~ mismanagement then who was going to cater for my life? Surely this made me to keep the ball rolling again in my poultry and farming.

Life can really teach us in a very difficult way but we should also handle it in another way by doing an extra-ordinary things that we thought we can never do.

Above all Happiness comes when we stop complaining about the troubles we have and offer thanks for the troubles we don't have. And thats how I had moved forward after covid.
